

A dream come true

One night, in Milan, Claudio, an elementary school kid, had an unimaginable dream, that changed his life, the way of life and even his hobbies.

That night, Claudio dreamed a huge garden, full of fragrant and coloured flowers, surrounded by many trees, both large and small.

In an instant he heard a voice that called him: attracted by that voice, he continued to listen with much attention. After that moment he felt nothing, but he saw a blinding light and a man appeared with a long white beard and with a long white dress, which showed him how important were the trees.

When he opened his eyes, he was like a new person and ready for school. There, always he played with trees: he hid behind the trees, playing hide and seek and made the goalkeeper to keep the ball out of the goal post, that were between two trees, etc. ... until to observe a tree for a full day. So, from that day, he knew the importance of trees.

When he was adult, always obsessed with trees, he began to make paintings on them, first of all painting small trees, then painting giant trees and then to make exhibitions.

After many exhibitions a newspaper wrote about Claudio and he became famous for his paintings, so his great and huge dream came true.
